

State of California

2007

Governor's Environmental and Economic Leadership
Awards

Information & Application

Application Deadline: June 5, 2007

California's Most Prestigious Environmental Honor

The Governor's Environmental and Economic Leadership Award Program is the State of California's highest environmental honor. The program recognizes individuals, organizations, and businesses that have demonstrated exceptional leadership and made notable, voluntary contributions in conserving California's precious resources, protecting and enhancing our environment, and building public-private partnerships.

Who May Apply:

Competition is open to all California residents, businesses, non-profit organizations, professional and trade associations, communities, state and local government entities, tribes, and federal agencies operating in California. Those who applied previously are welcome to apply again.

Award Categories:

- Climate Change *New Category!
Innovative and forward thinking approaches that reduce greenhouse gas emissions and mitigate the adverse effects of climate change on public health and our vast natural resources.
- Children's Environmental Education
Unique and exemplary educational programs and curricula that align with California's academic content standards and raise children's awareness of, and involvement in, environmental issues.
- Ecosystem And Watershed Stewardship
Innovative and sustainable approaches to land and water management that restore or protect natural conditions, functions and processes, and provide economic, social and environmental benefits.
- Sustainable Practices or Facilities
Pioneering efforts to integrate environmental values and conservation of natural resources into long-term decision making and management of businesses and facilities.
- Environmental and Economic Partnerships
Efforts that foster unique, cooperative approaches between the private, public, and/or non-profit sectors to achieve demonstrable results in both environmental and economic improvement.

- Comprehensive Land Use Planning

Demonstrates social equity and adequate housing; cost-effective infrastructure and transportation; water and energy efficiencies, and open space conservation to protect forests, agriculture, watersheds and other ecosystem values.

- Technological And Market Innovation

Innovation in manufacturing or product marketing to cost-effectively improve environmental and public health, productivity and sustainability of forests, farms or other natural resource lands, and conservation of open space and agriculture.

- Sustainable Communities

Exemplary project design or development of local communities and landscapes that makes efficient use of land, protects public health and safety, and conserves local watersheds, habitats and other sensitive lands.

Eligibility:

The awards will be presented for voluntary achievements undertaken or completed in 2006 or have reached fruition in 2006. Competition is open to all California residents, businesses, non-profit organizations, professional and trade associations, communities, state and local governmental entities, and federal agencies operating in California. Projects are deemed ineligible if they are the result of mitigation, litigation, or required by legislation.

Selection/Criteria:

A Selection Committee will evaluate applications for strength in eight specific areas: Results, Transferability, Environmental Impact, Resource Conservation Impact, Economic Progress, Innovation/Uniqueness, Pollution Prevention, and Environmental Justice. These criteria will be considered in the competitive weighting of nominations and are described below. Evaluations will take into consideration differences in size, region, and scope of projects, as needed.

- Results: Steps taken to achieve results are described; results are defined in measurable terms; environmental and economic benefits are identified and documented.
- Transferability: Project can be readily transferred to other sectors; others can easily implement.
- Environmental/Resource Conservation Impact: Accomplishment includes more than one environmental media or resource; project or program has long lasting and sustainable impact; magnitude of impact is described and significant.
- Economic Progress: California's economy is enhanced; measurable benefits are identified and realized; new/better jobs are created and new markets developed.
- Innovation/Uniqueness: Demonstrates basic practice to unique, innovative practice; a paradigm shift in approach; demonstrates a "pioneer" spirit; ahead of the marketplace and profitability.
- Pollution Prevention: Achieves measurable reductions in the generation of waste through source reduction; increased public-private awareness of pollution prevention; exemplifies best practices with a cross-media focus.

- Environmental Justice: Significantly raises the awareness and addresses environmental issues in vulnerable disadvantaged communities and or populations; raises the involvement of local/grassroots communities in the project or program; builds community leadership/stewardship to address environmental issues.

The deliberative process of the Selection Committee is confidential and all decisions are final subject to applicable California state law. A nomination may be considered in a category different from that in which it is nominated.

Winners will be notified by October 1, 2007.
